

EDUCATION RESOURCES FOR
DRAMA AND THEATRE STUDENTS IN THE ONLINE WORLD
APRIL 2020

These resources have been created for the online learning world. You may know some of the selected plays and some may be new. It's always great to make discoveries. Whichever is the case, Australian Plays recommends that teachers access and read a script before selecting it for their students.

Each script and the accompanying activities are designed as a mini unit of work or series of lessons for students to do solo, in pairs and in collaboration to take place over several days or spread across two or more weeks. It all depends on your students and the learning context.

For each selected play there are activities that include:

- Suggested ways to jump into the script - individually, in pairs, in breakout groups, as a class, 'live' in the online space OR to prepare and bring back
- Monologues, Duologues and Scenes to read, learn, present and 'perform', that can be assessed 'live' or recorded by students and then submitted for assessment
- Ways for students to consider the design elements of theatre; set, properties, costume, sound, make-up. From reading the script they can make some creative decisions – what would this play look like and sound like? (Without sneaking looks at the production shots first!)
- Suggestions for analysing and evaluating the script by reading professional reviews of previous productions and comparing and contrasting
- Listening to interviews with playwrights about their play, why they wrote it, and the stories they want to tell
- See production trailers or highlights that offer glimpses into the world of the play
- Access Education/Teachers notes prepared especially for the show that contain a whole stack of other activities for teachers to use with students!

Links to the curriculum: at the end of this resource there are two tables that link resources and the study of the plays to the Australian Curriculum in the Arts Drama and to aspects of each of the senior curricula in Drama/Theatre. They are suggestions only but may offer educators way to consider why and how these scripts address learning areas and assessment.

If you aren't able to have a school production this term, consider how one of these plays can be your 'production' in the online space.

So, consider your students, what are they into? Which script might offer them some new learning about plays and theatre? Over to you...and them.

MASQUERADE BY KATE MULVANY

FROM THE STATE THEATRE COMPANY OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA EDUCATION
COLLECTION - <https://australianplays.org/statetheatresaeducation/scripts>

In a wondrous world of riddles and hidden treasure, bumbling Jack Hare is on a race against time to deliver a message of love from the Moon to the Sun. Far, far away in a world just like ours, a mother cheers her son Joe, who is ill in hospital, with the tale of Jack Hare's adventure. But when Jack's mission goes topsy-turvy, Joe and his mum must come to the rescue, and the line between the two worlds becomes blurred forever.

Bringing to life Kit Williams' iconic picture book, Masquerade stars a talking fish, a tone-deaf barbershop quartet, a gassy pig, a precious jewel and a few mere mortals. It's a magical adventure that is, at its heart, about the love between a parent and a child.

SETTING AND STYLES:

Drawing on the original picture book created in 1979, the play offers an imaginative and fantasy like world with larger than life characters and song (which can be read aloud). Parallel to the fantasy of Jack Hare's adventures is that of ten-year-old Joe who is ill in hospital. The play moves back and forth between Joe's reality and the journey of Jack.

SUITABLE FOR AGES 9 TO 90 (MAGIC, FANTASY, GRIEF, LOSS)

CHARACTERS:

JOE, a 10-year-old boy

TESSA, Joe's mother

JACK, a hare

MOON, a raven-haired woman

SUN, a fair-haired man

THE MAN WHO PLAYS THE MUSIC THAT MAKES THE WORLD GO ROUND, the keeper of time

FAT NURSE, feels nothing

FAT PIG, feels everything

PENNY POCKETS, seller of goods and bads

TARA TREETOPS, collector of dreams
CRAW, a crow
SIR ISAAC NEWTON, a philosopher
THE PRACTICAL MAN, an opportunist
FISH, a fish
DAWN, an early-morning walker
BARBER BOB, BARBER BILL and BARBER BARBARA, an incomplete quartet
MEDICAL STAFF, humourless ghouls

In the original play, an ensemble of six actors played all the characters. In your online reading, rehearsing and presenting scenes you can extend this to suit your class.

ACTIVITIES AND RESOURCES:

SUGGESTIONS FOR READING THE SCRIPT:

- Read the entire play in your own time or as directed by your teacher
- There are about 20 characters
- Allocate characters across the group, doubling up or sharing if required
- Do a ‘live’ reading of the script in episodes – short scenes or via page numbers - across a couple of online sessions OR
- Allocate specific scenes for smaller groups/pairs to take away and then prepare and present back to the group – when read in order the whole script is heard!

EXPLORE ONE OF THE FOLLOWING SCENES IN DETAIL

FOR THOSE WHO WANT TO, LEARN AND PRESENT THIS MONOLOGUE:

Jack (page 66) (1-1.5 minutes)

Begins: Love. Love! I can say it!
Ends: Even you Penny Pockets

‘STAGING’ THE PRODUCTION:

While not being able to see a performance of the show at the moment, you can put your imagination to work before exploring the production links to the show (below)

- Can you remember how the script and the story described the different locations and places?
- What things happened in the story that suggest props and costumes, lights and sets, music and sound?

- How do you imagine this play would be staged?
- Create a Pinterest page or other digital scrapbook with images of set pieces and properties – upload to a group share drive
- Design/sketch an idea you have about the set – colours, textures, size and dimensions
- You could use a shoebox and make what is called a ‘box set’ – mini version of the set with cardboard parts and tiny characters!
- Design/draw a costume for one of the characters – perhaps the one you are playing?
- Design/record a sound scape for one of the scenes or songs
- If you have an instrument you could play it live to your online class

REVIEWS (ADAPT FOR YOUNGER STUDENTS):

Critical reviews are one person’s perspective of a theatre performance. They inform but they are not the ‘definitive’ analysis of a production. Consider the following two reviews. Compare and contrast them with your reading of the script.

- What further information about the play, the style, the direction, the acting and design do these reviews offer you?
 - Are they favourable? Critical?
 - Would you go and see the play based on the reviews? Do they make the show sound fun?

CURRICULUM LINKS: THE AUSTRALIAN CURRICULUM

LEARNING AREA	DESCRIPTION / EXAMPLES OF KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS
THE ARTS - DRAMA	In Drama students across all bands/year levels, explore the following Elements of drama including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Principles of narrative (story) • Viewpoints – multiple/different • Forms – structures, devised, scripted • Skills, techniques and processes – making and responding including: • Role, character and relationships, voice and movement, language, ideas and dramatic action, Audience (particularly how to ‘perform online’) • Materials – voice, body, props, costumes, lighting, sound, space
CAPABILITIES
LITERACY	LITERACY IN THE ARTS In the Australian Curriculum: The Arts, students use literacy to develop, apply and communicate their knowledge and skills as artists and as audiences. Through making and responding, students enhance and extend their literacy skills as they create, compose, design, analyse, comprehend, discuss, interpret and evaluate their own and others' artworks. Each Arts subject requires students to learn and use specific terminology of increasing complexity as they move through the curriculum. Students understand that the terminologies of The Arts vary according to context and they develop their ability to use language dynamically and flexibly.
NUMERACY	NUMERACY IN THE ARTS In the Australian Curriculum: The Arts, students select and use relevant numeracy knowledge and skills to plan, design, make, interpret, analyse and evaluate artworks. Across The Arts subjects, students recognise and use: number to calculate and estimate; spatial reasoning to solve problems involving space, patterns, symmetry, 2D shapes and 3D objects; scale and proportion to show and describe positions, pathways and movements; and measurement to explore length, area, volume, capacity, time, mass and angles.

	Students work with a range of numerical concepts to organise, analyse and create representations of data relevant to their own or others' artworks, such as diagrams, charts, tables, graphs and motion capture.
CRITICAL AND CREATIVE THINKING	CRITICAL AND CREATIVE THINKING Responding to the challenges of the twenty-first century – with its complex environmental, social and economic pressures – requires young people to be creative, innovative, enterprising and adaptable, with the motivation, confidence and skills to use critical and creative thinking purposefully. This capability combines two types of thinking: critical thinking and creative thinking. Though the two are not interchangeable, they are strongly linked, bringing complementary dimensions to thinking and learning. CRITICAL AND CREATIVE THINKING IN THE ARTS In the Australian Curriculum: The Arts, critical and creative thinking is integral to making and responding to artworks. In creating artworks, students draw on their curiosity, imagination and thinking skills to pose questions and explore ideas, spaces, materials and technologies. They consider possibilities and make choices that assist them to take risks and express their ideas, concepts, thoughts and feelings creatively. They consider and analyse the motivations, intentions and possible influencing factors and biases that may be evident in artworks they make to which they respond. They offer and receive effective feedback about past and present artworks and performances, and communicate and share their thinking, visualisation and innovations to a variety of audiences.
PERSONAL AND SOCIAL CAPABILITY	PERSONAL AND SOCIAL CAPABILITY Personal and social capability involves students in a range of practices including recognising and regulating emotions, developing empathy for others and understanding relationships, establishing and building positive relationships, making responsible decisions, working effectively in teams, handling challenging situations constructively and developing leadership skills.

	PERSONAL AND SOCIAL CAPABILITY IN THE ARTS In the Australian Curriculum: The Arts, students identify and assess personal strengths, interests and challenges. As art makers, performers and audience, students develop and apply personal skills and dispositions such as self-discipline, goal setting and working independently, and show initiative, confidence, resilience and adaptability. They also learn to empathise with the emotions, needs and situations of others, to appreciate diverse perspectives, and to understand and negotiate different types of relationships. When working with others, students develop and practise social skills that assist them to communicate effectively, work collaboratively, make considered group decisions and show leadership. The study of English as a system helps students to understand how language functions as a key component of social interactions across all social situations.
INTERCULTURAL UNDERSTANDING	INTERCULTURAL UNDERSTANDING Intercultural understanding is an essential part of living with others in the diverse world of the twenty-first century. It assists young people to become responsible local and global citizens, equipped through their education for living and working together in an interconnected world. Intercultural understanding combines personal, interpersonal and social knowledge and skills. Intercultural understanding stimulates students' interest in the lives of others. It cultivates values and dispositions such as curiosity, care, empathy, reciprocity, respect and responsibility, open-mindedness and critical awareness, and supports new and positive intercultural behaviours. Though all are significant in learning to live together, three dispositions – expressing empathy, demonstrating respect and taking responsibility – have been identified as critical to the development of Intercultural Understanding in the Australian Curriculum. Drama and the study of others' stories greatly contributes to these dispositions
